Further Developments Before the Lexow Committee.

SODA WATER MANUFACTURERS

Paid Tribute to Police Captains for the Privilege of Having Stands on the Streets. Violations of Liquor Laws in New York Harbor.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—A number of clergymen were in attendance upon the hearing of the Lexow investigating committee yesterday when Counsel Moss called Treasurer Laight, of the Soda Water Manufacturers' union to the stand. Mr. Laight was questioned concerning the methods adopted by the association in raising money to influence legislation and make presents to the downtown police captains because many of the members kept their soda water stands in the street. He admitted that a good deal of money was expended to protect standkeepers from police interference, but could not remember the details of many of the transactions.

A number of soda water stand owners and manufacturers were called to the stand and considerable light was thrown upon these transactions before the adjournment for the day was effected.

Captain Copeland, of the harbor police, was called to the stand shortly after recess. He denied that he had given orders to subordinates to refuse to allow the counsel for the committee to examine the station blotter. Mr. Moss finally succeeded in procuring the blotter and called attention to an entry made June 13, which stated that a citizen had reported to the sergeant that a man named A. R. Klein was going around collecting money for excursion parties. The man said that he was acting under instruction from Captain Copeland.

Copeland claimed that he had investigated the matter, but that he could not find any person by the name of Klein. He was then questioned concerning the violations of the excise law in the harbor. He admitted that violations were going on, but said that it was useless to try to bring the offenders to justice. The patrol operated by the police department is a large boat, and when the officers searched any of these excursion boats they could not find any traces of liquor selling.

Mrs. Kameech, a poor Slav woman, told a story of a banker getting her money away from her. She had secured the arrest of the banker, but the case had been postponed again and again and lawyers and police court officials were getting all of their money.

W. J. Valentine, who does an alleged commission business, testified that he was the president of the Stearns Commission company. It was claimed that he was dealing in bogus mining stock. He was given until today to find out additional particulars concerning some of the mines.

A Tammany Candidate Withdraws.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—At a late hour last night an intimate friend of Nominee Nathan Strauss said: "Mr. Strauss has practically decided to withdraw from the mayoralty race. This decision was arrived at after Mr. Strauss received word from a close friend of Senator Hill, in which the latter declined to accede to Mr. Strauss' request." The withdrawal of Mr. Strauss will once more put the Tammany slate all awry. It is universally admitted by most of the leaders that ex-Mayor Grant can have the nomination if he will accept, but it is not believed that he will.

Decided For the Fusionists.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 19.—The last hope of the administration Democrats to secure recognition for the candidates nominated by the convention which bolted the regular convention, was destroyed last night by the supreme court deciding that the fusion, or Bryan ticket, shall be designated as Democratic on the official ballot. The question came up on petition as to the power of the secretary of state to inspect the certificates of nomination under the provision of the ballot law.

A Political Preacher Deposed.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 19.—Professor J. B. Jones, of Hamilton college and pastor of the Providence church in this city, has been deposed from his pastorate by the irate members, who objected to his mixing up politics with religion. Professor Jones took a prominent part in the Breckinridge-Owens campaign against Colonel Breckinridge, while a majority of the officers in the church were sympathizers with the colonel.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: "I have been in a distressed condition for three years from nervousness, weakness of the stomach, dyspepsia and indigestion until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely medicine; a few bottles of it have cured me completely. I consider it the grandest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Sold by J. E. Mills Middletown, N. Y.

WOULD REMAIN IN THE SENATE.

Senator Hill Will Not Allow Republicans to Select His Successor.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 19.—The Associated Press correspondent, in an interview with one of the most intimate political associates of Senator Hill, was informed that if the Republicans secure control of the legislature the senator will retain his seat in the senate, and will not qualify as governor, even though he be elected.

"There is no doubt whatever," said the gentleman, "that Senator Hill will keep his seat in the United States senate even though he win in the gubernatorial race, rather than allow the Republicans to name his successor. Of course the Democrats are going to make a strong effort to elect a large number of their assemblymen. With the legislature Democratic on joint ballot Mr. Hill will take his seat if elected.

'I am of the opinion that if Hill should be elected governor, and the legislature be Republican, the voters of the Democratic party would not condemn him if he allowed Lockwood to qualify as governor. Some of Hill's most trusted lieutenants approve of such a move, and unless he changes his mind between now and New Year's he will not take his seat in the governor's chair unless there is a Democratic majority in the legislature on joint ballot."

WORKING MINERS AMBUSHED

Fired Upon by Strikers and One Man Fatally Injured.

ASHLAND, Ky., Oct. 19.—Reports come slowly in of the bloody attack upon the defenseless miners at the mines of the Straight Creek Coal company in Carter county, by strikers. The men were ambushed while en route to their work, and seven are reported to have been hit by bullets from Winchester rifles. Jack Marcum is fatally hurt and John Morris dangerously wounded. The others are not seriously injured. The sheriff's posse caught George Tyree, Bob and John Taylor, Jim Coburn and several more strikers in the woods, but they were unarmed and professed innocence. They are being held for further investigation.

An attempt by the company to work non-union labor in opposition to the demands of the United Mine Workers is the cause of the trouble. Additional trouble is feared as excitement is running high and heavy guards are being placed.

Judge Trumbull Not in Politics.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Lyman Trumbull, of Chicago, is at the Arlington. Speaking of the talk of his being the Populist candidate for the senate Mr. Trumbull said: "I am not a candidate for the senate nor for any political office. I am out of politics. I had something to say to the people, and I thought it would get to the masses more easily if I spoke when I did than it would did I speak before either political party. There is a spirit of unrest pervading the people—a feeling of dissatisfaction. Unless something is done there will be trouble."

Sugar Trust Magnates Plead Not Guilty.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The Sugar Trust officials, Messrs. Havemeyer and Searles, were arraigned in the criminal court of the District of Columbia, before Judge Cole, and pleaded not guilty to the indictments against them for refusing to answer questions of the senate sugar trust investigating committee, reserving the right to withdraw the plea in fifteen days and demur to the indictment. Bail was fixed at $5,000 in each case, which was promptly furnished.

A Priest Captures a Thief.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Father Gey, of St. Peter's Catholic Church, Clark and Polk streets, ended early mass by abruptly leaving the altar, robed in his sacred vestments, and collaring a bold thief in the main aisle. The thief, George Adams, an ex-convict, pretending to be a worshiper, had suddenly seized the pocketbook of an aged lady, and was making his escape. The thief was overpowered by Father Gey and turned over to a policeman.

Fatal Explosion of Firedamp.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 19.—An explosion of firedamp occurred in Shaner Mine No. 2, at Shaner, Pa., on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, and four Italian miners were seriously burned. It is thought two of them will die. Two are badly burned about the hands and face, and the other two have burns over almost the whole body. Physicians think they have inhaled the flames, making death almost certain.

Another Suspected Train Robber Caught.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 10.—A stranger who fell from a train at Chester Park yesterday and broke his leg is believed to be one of the Atquia creek train robbers, although he made no confession. Twelve hundred dollars was recovered from him, $150 being in his hat, other amounts in his clothing, boots and satchel. He wore a false truss full of money. He gives the name of Augustus Field.

It May Do As Much for You.

Mr. Fred Miller, of Irving, Ill., writes that he had a severe Kidney trouble for many years, with severe pains in his back and also that his bladder was affected. He tried many so called kidney cures but without any good result. About a year ago he began use of Electric Bitters and found relief at once. Electric Bitters is especially adapted to the cure of all Kidney and liver troubles and after gives almost instant relief. One trial will prove our statement. Prices only 50c. for large bottle at McMonagle & Rogers Drug store.

Women say that a meal tastes better when prepared by some one else, and that is just the reason why Simmons Liver Regulator is in such favor. It is already prepared in liquid and powder form. You don't need to make a tea. Another reason for this favor is that Simmons Regulator is better than Pills for Billiousness, Sick Headache, Constipation and Indigestion. Sample package powder, 25 cents.

FOUNDERS OF THE REPUBLIC.

Dedication of a Monument to Revolutionary Heroes at North Tarrytown.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 19.—The monument to the revolutionary soldiers whose bodies are buried in Sleepy Hollow was formally dedicated today, this being the anniversary of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown. The navy was represented by the cruisers New York, San Francisco and Cincinnati, which anchored in the Hudson off Tarrytown and fired salutes. The Sons of the Revolution and the Sons of the American Revolution together with the Daughters of the Revolution, were on hand, as were all the Grand Army posts of the county of Westchester, and also a battery from Fort Hamilton. Governor Flower was present and ex-Judge Noah Davis presided over the ceremonies.

The monument stands just within Sleepy Hollow cemetery, near Tarrytown, crowning an eminence called Battle Hill, and within an old redoubt thrown up to protect the historic bridge across the Pocantico. It overlooks the old Dutch church where the kinsmen of the heroes have worshiped for two centuries, as well as the scenes of many skirmishes and much of the territory made classic by the genius of Washington Irving. On it are engraved the names of the known revolutionary heroes of that vicinity, names which are a patent of nobility to their descendants, and representing many families of the vicinity as well as many prominent men of other places.

Extending the Oil Territory.

WILKESBARRE, Oct. 19.—The fact has just been made public that the Standard Oil company and the Eastern Pennsylvania Oil company have purchased large tracts of oil lands in Susquehanna, Columbia, Luzerne and Schuylkill counties. Prospectors have been at work for more than a year, but the matter was kept quiet, and many farmers were induced to part with their lands at the market figures. In Huntingdon valley, Luzerne county, the boring operations of the prospectors have aroused suspicion, and the farmers there are demanding fabulous prices. Colonel E. C. Rienzi, who has charge of the work for the Eastern Pennsylvania company, says he has always had the theory that oil could be found in paying quantities near the coal fields and his theory has been realized.

The Michigan Train Wreckers.

MARSHALL, Mich., Oct. 19.—The News correspondent examined the sworn statements of Knowles, Bedewig and Hill, the alleged Battle Creek Grand Trunk wreckers. Knowles admits that Bedewig and himself stole the claw bar with which the plates were removed. He charges that after the wreck Bedewig admitted wrecking the train with two others. Knowles confession states that the plot was concocted in the American Railway union, and that Bedewig was the chief conspirator. Bedewig admits having had connection with the crime, but says he was not present when the job was done. Hall disclaims any knowledge of the wreck, but says that Bedewig and another man did it.

Will Not Employ Populist Candidates.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Oct. 19.—George L. Black, assistant superintendent of the Union Pacific Coal company, has notified J. F. Pierce, nominated by the People's party for state auditor, that he must either resign from his position with the company or withdraw from the ticket. It is understood the order comes from the receivers of the road. The state law prescribes a fine of from $100 to $500 when any individual or corporation in any way interferes with the candidacy of an employe for public office.

Fatalities on the Ocean.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—General J. A. Dumont, supervising inspector general of steam vessels, in his annual report to the secretary of the treasury, calls attention to the exceptional fact that while fires of greater or less extent occurred on ninety-four steam vessels during the year, there was no loss of life. The total number of lives lost by accidents from various causes during the year was 255, an increase of twenty-seven over the year 1893.

Express Employes Charged with Robbery.

THE DALLES, Ore., Oct. 19.—After removing F. N. Hill from his position as agent at this place, the officials of the Pacific Express company placed Edward Kurtz in charge of the office and caused Hill, Messenger Tibbetts and the watchman, Gibbons, to be arrested. They are accused of complicity in Saturday night's robbery, when $14,000 was stolen.

THE OHIO RIOTERS.

Another Victim of Bullets Fired to Uphold the Law.

TWO OTHER DEATHS EXPECTED.

After the Militia Left Washington Court House Everything Quieted Down, but There Is Still Much Feeling Against Sheriff Cook — Dolby Safe In Columbus.

WASHINGTON C. H., Oct. 19.—Washington Court House is as quiet today as though rioting and bloodshed had never been seen within its borders. The withdrawal of the last detachment of soldiers with their implements of death acted like a soothing potion upon the half crazed populace. From that hour the excitement rapidly subsided. Every train brought relatives and friends of the killed and wounded, and upon these the citizens lavished every attention. George W. and E. C. Sams, father and brother of William Sams, arrived from Athens, and reached the wounded man's bedside a few minutes before he breathed his last. Sams' death adds a fourth to last night's victims.

Theodore Ammerman is dying, and F. L. Nitterhouse can hardly survive. Little George Keating whose injuries were at first thought surely fatal, may recover, but will be horribly maimed. A number of those reported seriously wounded are now known to be merely scratched or bruised. Considerable excitement was caused by a rumor that an attempt on Sheriff Cook's life would be made, but this cannot be traced to any reliable source. Cook has returned from Columbus, but has kept in doors. There is still much feeling against him.

It is probable that criminal and civil proceedings will be instituted by the relatives of some of the victims. Beyond this and the remorse of Wednesday night's awful scenes, the Dolby riot is a thing of the past, and the good people here are thanking God that it was no worse.

The following is a complete list of the dead and those whose wounds demand medical attention:

Dead—Smith Welsh, aged 14; Jesse Judy 25; Mack Johnson, 23; William A. Sams 25.

Fatally Injured—Theo. Ammerman, F. L. Nitterhouse, George Keating.

Painfully Wounded—Earnest Ellis, John McHugh, John Korns, Walter Leach, H. C. Morris, Frank Smith, Miss Hannah Coughlin, Grace Mossis, Frank Jackson, Dial Parret, J. W. Wilcox, Dale Dewit and Leon and Charles Bloomer.

Satolli at Cardinal Gibbons' church in Baltimore. Father Papi, Mgr. Satolli's secretary, will join the Jesuit order.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Mrs. Daisy Way Emmett has been awarded a decree of absolute divorce from her husband Joseph K. Emmett, the actor, by Justice Ingraham of the supreme court. By its provisions the actor must pay his wife alimony at the rate of $40 a week for her support and maintenance and additional $10 weekly for the support of her daughter.

Viscount Drumlanrig Killed While Hunting.

All of the Crew Lost.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—D. C. Sage, owner of the schooner S. S. Scranton, which was wrecked in the gale of Oct. 10 off New London, Conn., states that the entire crew of the schooner, four in number, were lost. The report published on the 16th that the crew had been saved was unfounded.

Bold Daylight Robbery.

ST. CLOUD, Minn., Oct. 19.—Anton Peffer, a storekeeper, is a loser to the amount of $2,400 by a daylight robbery committed yesterday afternoon. His money drawer, in a desk adjacent to a back window, was rifled of about $2,400 in bills. No clew.

The State Commander writes us from Lincoln, Neb., as follows: "After trying other medicines for what seemed to be a very obstinate cough in our two children we tried Dr. King's New Discovery and at the end of two days the cough entirely left them. We will not be without it hereafter as our experience proves that it cures where all other remedies fail."—Signed F. W. THE MIKADO DETERMINED.

He Charges the Chinese Government with Precipitating the War.

HIROSHIMA, Japan, Oct. 19.—A session of parliament was held here yesterday. The speech from the throne was delivered by the mikado in person. His majesty said that he had decided to convene an extraordinary session and had given direction to his ministers to submit for the deliberation of the diet a bill providing for increasing expenditures for the army and navy, which was an important matter.

He declared that he was greatly pained that China should have forgotten her duties in regard to the maintenance of peace in the east in conjunction with Japan. "She having brought about the present state of affairs, however," proceeded the mikado, "and hostilities having been commenced, we will not stop until we shall have attained our objects."

In conclusion his majesty expressed the hope that all his subjects in the empire would co-operate with the government in order to promote the restoration of peace by means of a great triumph for the Japanese arms.

Saved by Her Faithful Dog.

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., Oct. 19.—Stephen Williams, colored, was brought to jail by Sheriff Dove yesterday, charged with attempting to commit a felonious assault upon Mrs. Albert Hardesty, who resides near Woodmore, in Prince George's county. The attempted assault occurred about a half mile from the place where James Allen committed the crime for which he suffered the penalty of death. The prisoner was identified by Mrs. Hardesty and also by her adopted daughter. Williams was prevented from accomplishing his purpose by the faithful watchdog of the lady.

The Business No Longer Profitable.

TRENTON, Oct. 19.—Ida S. Alpaugh, widow of Spencer M. Alpaugh, has brought suit in the court of chancery asking to have the affairs of the Trenton Rubber company wound up. She holds 640 shares of a par value of $64,000, out of a capital stock of $200,000. She avers that the business is no longer profitable; that the works have ceased making their original line of goods, and that the other stockholders have started up other concerns which now make shoddy, which was the principal line of goods of the Trenton company.

Suing Careless Bank Directors.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 19.—Robert T. Gibbons, of the Greenville City National bank, which failed in June, 1893, has commenced suit against Henry N. Anderson and John J. Foster to recover $224,000 which the bank lost in worthless paper. The bill filed charges that through no intent to defraud, but through neglect to properly discharge their duties as directors, worthless notes were discounted. The two together are not worth more than one-third the amount lost by the bank.

Robert J. Wins by Default.

NASHVILLE, Oct. 19.—Six thousand people gathered at Cumberland Park yesterday, being chiefly attracted by the prospects of a match between Robert J. and John R. Gentry. The horses came in so closely together in the first heat that the judges decided it a dead heat; time, 2.04. After the second heat it was found that Gentry had cut himself, and was allowed to be withdrawn. Robert J. was given the race, and then sent a mile with a running mate; time, 2.03½.

Suicide Hanford Was a Multi-Millionaire.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—The inventory of the estate of Second Vice President P. C. Hanford, of the National Linseed Oil company, who killed himself here about three months ago reveals the fact that the suicide was immensely wealthy. His estate consisted largely in holdings in silver mines of Colorado and Idaho, and in the Harrison International Telephone company. His fortune was over $20,000,000. The cause of his suicide is still a mystery.

Alleged Incendiaries Acquitted.

WOOSTER, O., Oct. 19.—The Reimer family, who are charged with having started the numerous fires at Dalton, one of which destroyed half of the town a few weeks ago, were given a hearing before Probate Judge McClarran. After a thorough examination of witnesses, lasting two days, the judge decided to release them, there not being sufficient evidence to hold them for trial in common pleas court. Applause from the crowd greeted the decision of the judge.

RUSSIA'S RULER DYING.

All of the Royal Family Hastening to Livadia.

DEATH EXPECTED AT ANY TIME.

The Marriage of the Czarowitz and Princess Alix Will Take Place Within a Month. The Bride-Elect Is Now En Route to Livadia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 19.—Prayers for the recovery of the czar were offered yesterday in the Kazan cathedral. Henceforth bulletins telling of his majesty's condition will be posted on the streets.

An official dispatch indicating the sudden gravity of the czar's condition was sent to Darmstadt, and a reply was received saying that the Grand Duke of Hesse-Darmstadt and the Grand Duchess Sergius, his sister, had started for St. Petersburg.

The news from Livadia has caused consternation in St. Petersburg and there is a general feeling that the end may be expected any day. Consequently great anxiety is expected regarding the consequences of the czar's sudden demise.

The announcement that the condition of the czar has perceptibly changed for the worse was contained in an official bulletin issued at 11 o'clock Wednesday night at Livadia, and signed by Professors Leyden,

ALEXANDER III.

Hirsch, Zacharin, Popoff and Beljaminoff. The bulletin added that his majesty showed symptoms of general debility, and that his weakness of heart was more pronounced. The bulletin produced a most depressing effect here, and caused agitation on the bourse.

Pere Ivian, otherwise known as "Holy John of Cronstadt," who is going to Livadia to pray for the czar, is a miracle worker.

The physicians have prepared the czarina for the worst. The czar realizes his condition, and wants to witness the marriage of the czarowitz before he dies.

It is impossible now to ignore the serious reports of cancer, or at least serious complications. The bulletin causes keen sorrow among all classes. Crowds gather at the places where copies of the bulletins are posted and cross themselves devoutly as they read the painful news, which is taken to indicate that the case of his majesty is hopeless. Beside the bulletin of the doctors is posted the czar's telegram to the Cossack regiments here saying that he drinks to the health of his brave Cossacks on the occasion of their annual fete. There seems to be a pause in all government work.

BERLIN, Oct. 19.—The Cologne Gazette has a dispatch from St. Petersburg stating that the czar appears to be dying. All the members of the imperial family are en route to Livadia, where his majesty is sojourning.

The dispatch adds that it is reported that after the reception of Princess Alix, the czarowitz's betrothed, into the orthodox church, a quiet wedding will follow. The marriage will take place in Livadia before Nov. 20, on which day the great fasts of the church begin.

It is further said that the formal appointment of the czarowitz as regent is hourly expected. It is persistently stated that Pobiedonoszeff resigned the procuratorship of the holy synod a week ago, but that his resignation was not accepted.

Effect on European Politics.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The Standard in a leader this morning says: "We shrink from speculating upon the consequences that may ensue in Asia as well as Europe when a life so valuable as that of the czar ends. Without expecting the collapse of China the time must soon come when the problem of the far east must be taken into account. When that crisis arrives it will be a misfortune to the world if Russia's policy shall be guided by any other hand than his."

Princess Alix Leaves Darmstadt.

DARMSTADT, Oct. 19.—Princess Alix of Hesse Darmstadt, the future wife of the czarowitz, left here today for Livadia. At Warsaw the princess joins the members of the Russian imperial family, who are en route to Livadia.

Dr. Hand's Diarrhœa Mixture.

"My baby is subject to severe attacks of diarrhœa. During the last sickness Dr. Hand's Diarrhœa Mixture was freely given and an immediate cure resulted. It would have required a dozen visits of a physician as on former occasions. I believe Dr. Hand's Remedies would have saved the life of the child I lost, had they been within my reach at the time of its sickness."—Mrs. F. H. Bennett, 752 New St., Camden, N. J. 25c. DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN OPENED AT SYRACUSE.

THE STATEMENT OF ISSUES.

A Ringing Speech On the Questions of the Day—The A. P. A. and the Gerrymander Get Scathing Criticism.

Senator Hill opened the campaign by a speech before an immense and enthusiastic mass meeting at Syracuse on Thursday evening, October 11th. He said in part:

I know of no more appropriate place in which to open the present campaign than before the united Democracy of Onondaga county.

Although largely in the minority, you have never been dismayed by local defeats, nor discouraged by adverse circumstances, nor intimidated by the boasts of our adversaries; but with a firm adherence to the true principles of government in which you sincerely believe, you have for years maintained your party organization intact and are ever ready for the contest with the common enemy.

I recognize the right of every Democrat prior to the final nomination of a candidate, to oppose, criticize and defeat such candidacy, and such privilege or the propriety of its exercise in any instance has never been questioned by me.

There must necessarily be differences of opinion on some public questions, and such differences honestly entertained furnish no excuse for coarse abuse or bitter personal reflections. I propose to conduct a creditable canvass in behalf of my party which has honored me with its leadership so that at its conclusion, whatever the result may be, I shall be able to retain at least my own self respect and I hope as well the personal respect of my adversaries.

For the distinguished and venerable gentleman whom the Republican party has selected as my opponent in this campaign—or more acurately speaking, the gentleman who Mr. Platt selected and whose selection the convention subsequently ratified—I have nothing but the kindliest feelings and the most profound personal respect. I acknowledge his many excellent qualities and am indebted to him for many courtesies while he was presiding officer of the Senate. Of genial disposition, of commercial business ability, and of large means, he naturally attracts friends, and his candidacy for any position which he may covet becomes most formidable and dangerous.

Born in the State of Vermont—probation Vermont—let me observe—the State whose Republicanism is most extreme and "ultra" in its character, he afterwards removed to New Hampshire where he was engaged in business for many years in the Congressional District which that State is a peculiar and distinguishing fact, nor without special interest in this campaign, that all the while Mr. Morton lived in New Hampshire and until as late as the year 1867 the constitution of that State was most proscriptive in its terms and actually prohibited any person "not of the Protestant religion" from being Governor or a member of either House of the Legislature; and its Bill of Rights then provided and still provides that only "Protestant teachers of piety, religion and morality" may be maintained at public expense of the respective towns of the State, and this too in this enlightened nineteenth century. It is not impossible that the early narrow associations of Vermont and the proscriptive sentiments of New Hampshire which surrounded Mr. Morton during his residence in those States, may have influenced his convictions upon certain public questions, and led to his selection in this peculiar crisis.

Not Morton But Platt.

Everybody knows that the real Republican candidate for Governor is not Mr. Morton, but Mr. Platt himself. It is the voice of Levi, but the hand of Thomas. The people of the State, and especially thoughtful Republicans, have not forgotten the fact that for every office to which Mr. Morton has aspired he has been pushed forward by Mr. Platt. When the Republicans of the State desired to send William M. Evarts to the United States Senate, his candidacy was opposed by Mr. Platt, who forced Mr. Morton into the contest against him. When Warner Miller's term as Senator expired, and by the usages of his party he was entitled to reelection, Mr. Platt again made Mr. Morton a candidate, and succeeded in defeating Mr. Miller by finally throwing Mr. Morton's votes to Mr. Hiscock. Mr. Morton's nomination to the Vice-Presidency was secured for him by Mr. Platt, who controlled the New York delegation. And now this same very respectable and venerable gentleman, at the age of seventy-one, was selected by Mr. Platt months before the Republican State convention convened, as his candidate for Governor, when the nomination of right and according to precedent belonged to others whom the party would have delighted to honor, and the people of the State are asked to ratify his personal selection. It is to be said in favor of Mr. Morton that he has always been grateful to his benefactor, and has never antagonized his schemes or plans of party policy. He always thinks exactly as Mr. Platt thinks. When Mr. Platt aspired to the high and responsible position of Secretary of the Treasury in President Harrison's cabinet, he had the warm support of his protege and friend, Mr. Morton.

Do not misunderstand me. I do not fail to appreciate the business qualifications, the excellent character, and unquestioned political ability of Mr. Platt. I differ with him politically, but as a citizen and a gentleman I have nothing to say against him, and decline to be one of his traducers. He has a perfect right to be ambitious and to aspire to the Governorship of this State, but I do insist that he should be a candidate in person, and not by proxy. There is no demand or place for a Warwick in this State or in this free country. His party should have nominated him instead of allowing him to drag his perennial candidate from his coveted retirement to attempt to assume, if elected, the arduous and exhaustive duties of Chief Executive of this State, onerous duties which would largely have to be performed by Mr. Platt himself.

Democrats Not to Be Sidetracked.

We should not permit our opponents to obscure the real issues involved in this election. We decline to belittle the important questions which divide the two great parties by entering upon the discussion of the abuses pertaining to the police department of a single city, as though the correction of such abuses could be made a party question.

The Democratic party of the State will not sanction Republican nor Democratic blackmailing, whether discovered in Democratic or Republican municipalities, and it is an insult to the intelligence of the people to assume otherwise. We refuse to be placed upon the defensive upon false issues. The plain truth is that the police department of New York city is a non-partisan or rather a bi-partisan department, governed by civil service rules, and that the irregularities or abuses recently exposed have already implicated more Republican than Democratic police officials, and that such exposures have been followed by prompt dismissals from the force and prompt prosecutions at the instance of zealous Democratic city and county officers.

It is idle to think that a State election can be made to turn upon such purely local matters. It has not escaped public attention that the partisan Lexow committee has not sought to discover any police abuses in any Republican cities of the State, and with such unfair discriminations the people will not tolerate any attempt to make partisan capital out of the results of only partisan investigation. Neither do we propose to permit any old issues already entirely disposed of to engross our attention in this campaign. The question whether the Democrats properly or improperly, regularly or irregularly secured control of the State Senate in 1881, is powder already burned which cannot be utilized again to the advantage of our adversaries. The manner in which a single Senatorial District was for two short years obtained is overshadowed by the greater living question as to whether our opponents by an unjust Constitutional apportionment shall obtain the control of the whole Legislature for all time to come. I do not intend to thrash old straw over again, but I desire simply to suggest that the Democrats had fairly carried the State ticket in 1891 by 47,000 majority, and no legal quibble, no technicalities, and no harsh constructions of judicial orders should have been permitted to deprive them of the control of the Legislature to which under such circumstances the dominant party was fairly entitled; and whether any law was strained or not justice did in fact prevail.

The Vital Issue.

The Republicans last fall accidentally obtained control of the Constitutional convention, and have proceeded to place an apportionment of Senate and Assembly districts in their Constitutional amendments to be submitted to the people at this election.

The control of that convention was itself obtained by deception. The Republican delegates in several cities solicited support not as Republicans but as reformers, and promised nonpartisan action. The election last fall in this State was itself proclaimed as a reform rather than a Republican triumph. But no sooner did the convention convene than all disguises were thrown off and Republican partisanship became rampant.

The unfairness, the partisanship, the absolute injustice of the proposed apportionment admits of no argument. Its purpose was openly avowed on the floor of the convention to be to secure for all the future the control of the Legislature of the State to the Republicans, and no one denies that such will be its effect.

Every Democratic member of the Constitutional convention voted against the scheme, and thereafter issued an address to the people giving in detail their reasons therefor, and such address is worthy of the careful consideration of the fair-minded men of all parties. Its facts, its figures, its conclusions, have not been and cannot be successfully refuted. It is absolutely unanswerable.

Fellow Democrats: let me tell you in all seriousness that the success of this scheme at the polls means the absolute control of the Legislature to the Republicans for all time to come. It means the loss of New York forever hereafter to the Democratic party. It means political annihilation to all of us.

The partisans who contrived this scheme of injustice delight to prate about the "stealing" of a single Senatorial district by the Democrats, and yet here they unblushingly propose to steal a whole State.

One conclusive argument establishing the iniquity of these amendments is to be found in the fact that a Democratic majority in the State at large of from fifty to seventy thousand would under this apportionment still leave the Legislature in the hands of the Republicans.

Take the last full vote of 1892, when the Democrats carried the State by 45,000 majority, and yet that vote distributed or equalized according to these amendments would still give the Legislature to the other side. Any person can make the calculations for himself. How can any honest Republican defend such a scheme? It is outrageous; it is unjust; it is infamous.

I need not urge the proposition that an apportionment should be so constituted that the majority party in the State should control the Legislature. That is a self-evident proposition, and yet this apportionment proceeds upon the theory that the Republicans of right should control the Legislature, regardless of the population of the respective districts. I appeal to our party friends everywhere to arouse to the danger which confronts them in this matter, and laying aside prejudices, disappointments and preferences, unite together to preserve the life of our party, now seriously imperilled.

Un-American Spirit of the Republican Party.

I condemned in my speech at Saratoga, and I condemn here also, that un-American spirit which is insidiously fastening itself upon portions of our community, which seeks to set up a religious test as one of the qualifications for public office in this country. Any organization, secret or otherwise, which has this object in view deserves the execration of every good citizen. It is useless to deny the fact that sympathy for this intolerant spirit has found much support in Republican circles, much encouragement in the Republican press, and much aid at the polls in strong Republican localities. It is also a significant fact, which cannot well be explained away, that the recent Republican State convention, although urgently requested to do so, deliberately refused to incorporate any provision in its platform condemning such an un-American policy of intolerance. Such a provision would have been very appropriate at this time—in fact, was absolutely demanded by every consideration of patriotism.

Republican Hard Times.

I deny the oft-repeated statement that the Democratic party is justly responsible for the hard times through which the country has just passed. The financial panic of last year and the succeeding hard times were the results of the Republican legislation enacted during Mr. Harrison's administration. You know who passed the Sherman silver bill and the McKinley tariff bill, and one was as detrimental to the finances of the country as the other. One exhausted the surplus—especially the gold of the Treasury to purchase silver bullion to be stored in the Treasury as a commodity, and the other by its high protective duties failed to produce sufficient revenues to support the government.

With these two obnoxious statutes repealed, the country is now entering upon better times. Money is easier; trade is reviving; manufactories are resuming operations; new enterprises are starting up, and everywhere there is a feeling of security, of confidence, and of prosperity. Our workingmen are rapidly finding employment, and the great army of the unemployed will soon disappear.

What the country needs now is industrial peace. Any attempt to repeal the existing law and to substitute the McKinley law in its place will disturb the business interests of the country and will restore the recent hard times, and should be frowned down by every business man in the country. Besides, it would be an ill-advised and idle effort, because it cannot succeed. Even if a Republican House of Representatives should be chosen, supplemented by a Republican Senate, no law could be passed without the approval of a Democratic President. It is better for the country, better for its business interests, better for everybody, that no such effort should be made, but that a Democratic House and Senate should be chosen to cooperate with the President in giving the country industrial peace for the next two years. Those who advocate a different course do so for politics' sake alone, and not for the good of our common country. Relief from tariff agitation at this time; no radical changes in the near future; a fair trial of the existing law before a general revision is again attempted; this is the wise and safe policy which will continue the restoration of prosperity.

Last year's panic was a Republican panic in its inception and conclusion.

We all regret the delay in the Senate over the adoption of the new tariff law. We had a small majority. We were incumbered by old rules which we did not make, but which we inherited. I trust that we may amend them so that the majority may rule, and rule promptly. Nevertheless, we repealed the McKinley bill quicker than it was enacted.

When in 1889 the government became Republican, there was money in the Treasury. In 1893 when Mr. Cleveland became President, it was bankrupt.

These were the things which caused the panic.

I acknowledge that the tariff law is not perfect. But it is far better than the McKinley bill and, first, because it will not produce an extravagant surplus; second, because it will not create a deficiency but will furnish ample revenue for the support of the government.

The bill should be amended by putting more articles on the free list. Give us a larger majority in the Senate and it will be so changed. As it is it will not hurt a single laborer nor a single manufacturer in the country.

Without retracting one jot of what I have said in criticism of the bill I say that the bill is worthy of a trial and if that trial is given it will not be found wanting.

It is not necessary that I should at this time enter into any defense of President Cleveland's administration. It speaks for itself. There have been few if any scandals. The departments have been well conducted. We need not regret our vote of 1892, for the Democracy.

State Administration.

We need not speak of our State. For many years I was connected with the administration of the State. For seven years the Republicans expressed their denunciation of that administration, and every time the people spoke they endorsed it.

Labor day was placed upon the statute books in that administration. The Saturday half holiday was provided during a Democratic administration. You have not forgotten the fact that the law prohibiting Pinkerton detectives from other States coming here was a Democratic law.

You have not forgotten that the Democratic party placed the present excise law on the statute books. You remember how radical were the demands of the Republicans on the excise law, and how the fees received from licenses were to be divided. Mr. Morton intimates that additional excise laws are needed. What are those laws? The Republicans do not disclose their hands. Wait until they get control of the Legislature, which I hope they never will and you will see what the course as regards the excise will be.

You remember what our position on the ballot law was. You know that we stood up for a secret ballot for all however humble.

Democratic politics have been vindicated in the recent administration of Governor Flower. The Democratic party has given New York State an administration of which it may be proud. The canals have been improved and that improvement was begun under my administration. The laws have been fairly and impartially administered.

Home Rule and Honest Government.

I believe in home rule for cities, and I steadily enforced that doctrine during the seven years of my administration of the State government. The opposition to that salutary policy came solely from our Republican friends whose political interests have usually been subserved by interference in the local affairs of Democratic cities.

I believe in honest government in nation, State, city and town, and have no sympathy with fraud or corruption anywhere.

I pledge my best efforts to uproot rascality wherever it may exist in our State, and to punish the offenders wherever found.

If the nomination which I have reluctantly accepted under circumstances with which you are familiar shall be ratified by the people, I shall assume the office under no obligation to any ring, machine, cabal or political clique and free from any entangling alliance whatever, and with the sole desire to discharge my duty to the whole people according to the best of my ability. To party friends I have only to say that past differences shall be forgotten, and that all interests, all sections, and all factions shall be treated fairly and alike. I have consented to make the present contest not to gratify any personal ambition, but to assist in aiding the Democratic cause which is near and dear to my heart, and with which I have been identified during all my political life.

I cannot too severely denounce those men in either political party who identified themselves with political affairs for personal or pecuniary advantage, but I welcome to the Democratic ranks all earnest and sincere men—men of straight integrity, ambitious though they may be, who desire to promote the success of right principles, to aid the cause of good government, and to elevate official standards.

I regret that certain very estimable gentlemen in New York and Brooklyn have announced their unwillingness to give me their support at the election, and express a desire to advocate a third ticket. I deplore such action not on account of any injustice or result to myself personally, but for the Democratic cause, which their unwise action tends to imperil.

They know as well as I do that this nomination was not of my own seeking, and that for a week I sought in every honorable way to be relieved from the burdens and responsibilities which its acceptance imposed, but I found it impossible. With "malice towards none and with charity for all," with no words of censure or complaint, I leave them to discharge their duty to their country and their party according to their own conscientious convictions. I beg only to suggest and hope that if they cannot consistently see their way clear to give me their suffrage, that they will loyally support my honorable associates upon this ticket, Daniel N. Lockwood and Charles F. Brown, who I trust will consent to the use of their names as candidates upon the third ticket, if a third ticket there must be. I am willing to make any sacrifice of pride, of feeling, or advantage, which will aid the Democratic cause, or any of its candidates in any respect.

A united Democratic party in this State will give us the victory. A majority of the people believe in Democratic principles, and desire their triumph. With no false or misleading issues to distract us, with honest and vigorous efforts to poll our full vote, with a firm reliance upon the justice of our cause, let us enter the contest with a determination that we can and shall place the Democratic party again in the victorious column, where it stood for seven straight years during my former administration, and where it belongs today.

I rep at what I said in opening the campaign in September, 1892, in behalf of our National standard-bearers, Cleveland and Stevenson. "To secure the victory which awaits us, we must organize! organize! organize!"

ALL FOR HARMONY.

Brooklyn State Committee Retire in It Interests.

Three of the Brooklyn State committee men who are objectionable to the reform element in the party in that city, after consulting with their associates of the State committee, decided to retire in the interests of harmony, and in the hope of securing every Democrat's vote for the excellent State ticket. Their places will be filled by men who will be acceptable to Democrats of all shades of opinion, and an aggressive campaign will at once be inaugurated in the city of churches.

Senator Hill's Democracy.

According to the Reform Democrats of Kings County Mr. Hill "is a Democrat only when Democracy means himself."—Binghamton Republican.

What sort of a Democrat was he in 1892, when he jumped into the fight and stumped New York for Cleveland? What sort of a Democrat was he when he left his own canvass in this State in 1888 and travelled to Indiana to speak for Cleveland? What sort of a Democrat was he when, in his opening speech at Oswego, in the campaign of 1888, he declared: "I want no divided triumphs in this campaign. I want to stand or fall with the national ticket."

These things prove Senator Hill to be a pretty good Democrat and gives the lie to utterances like that quoted above.—Oswego Palladium.

Wild Potatoes in Maine.

A gentleman who claims to know declares there is a flavor in the potatoes that are raised in the clearings in the Maine backwoods not to be found in those growing in the open regions. It is to him like the wild flavor of venison as compared with tame meats. Whether from the frost-laden fragrance of the atmosphere or from the new soil, the quality comes he knows not, but he thinks as much of getting his wild potatoes when he goes a-hunting as his game; and he hopes the Legislature will put no close time on them.—Lewiston Evening Journal.

The blanket ballot to be voted in Pennsylvania, this fall, will contain seven columns and will be 24x34 inches in size.

Ex-Postmaster General Wannamaker, who wants to succeed Don Cameron in the Senate, opened his campaign, last night, at Columbia, Pa., with a speech in which he told of the harm the Democratic tariff was doing the plain people of the country. The speech would have been a great deal more effective if ever since the new tariff went into effect Dry Goods Merchant Wannamaker had not been advertising great reductions in prices because of reductions in the duties on all kinds of staple and fancy dry goods. Lower prices for all the necessaries of life are a practical proof of the blessings of tariff reform against which calamity howlers howl in vain.

An attempt is being made to manufacture political capital out of the scare given the wood acid manufacturers, a few weeks ago, by the internal revenue section of the new tariff bill allowing a rebate on grain alcohol used in the arts. The effect of the enforcement of the paragraph would have been to prevent the use of wood alcohol, for grain alcohol would have been much cheaper, but the Democratic Secretary of the Treasury decided that the grain alcohol rebate section must remain inoperative since no provision was made for carrying it into effect. The wood acid manufacturers would, therefore, stand in precisely the same position that they did before the enactment of the tariff bill if, in a moment of panic, they had not signed a modified contract with the Manhattan Spirit Company, the wood alcohol trust, agreeing to accept a greatly reduced price for their alcohol. For whatever loss and worry the grain alcohol rebate paragraph has caused wood acid manufacturers they have only Republicans to thank. The paragraph was prepared and inserted in the bill by Mr. Hoar, a Republican Senator from Massachusetts, and kept there by him by the help of Republican votes, although Senator Sherman and many Democrats warned the Senate that it was objectionable and dangerous. One of the first acts of Congress when the next session begins will be to repeal the rebate paragraph, but in the meantime acid manufacturers and all interested in their business should remember that the paragraph which threatened their business was conceived by a Republican and passed by Republican votes.

ACROSS THE TROLLEY WIRE.

A Broken Call Bell Wire Makes an Electric Display on James Street

A dead tree which was being cut down in front of the Russell House on James street, this morning, fell upon the "two minutes before the curtain rises" wire which connects the Casino stage with a bell in the Cottage Cafe. The wire fell across the trolley wire and for a moment the air was filled with fire flashes and reports like pistol shots.

Conductor King, of the electric road, was standing by, and fortunately had a pair of rubber handled nippers and wire cutters with him. Superintendent of Fire Alarm Frank Smith was also at hand, and with the aid of the nippers soon had the wire disconnected.

Fortunately no one was injured by the accident, but the necessity of a parallel guard wire was clearly demonstrated, as there are a number of wires crossing James street.

PUBLIC VOICE.

A Business Man's Views In Regard to a Y. M. C. A. Building.

EDITORS ARGUS: Noting a communication in Monday's ARGUS in reference to our Y. M. C. A.; I cannot refrain from expressing a few ideas from a business man's standpoint. In order to secure a home the association must deserve it.

No one ever saw a church built without first giving every member an opportunity to subscribe or take part in the work before going outside for help. Now then, from our point of view, the first step towards securing a Y. M. C. A. home, is stores on the ground floor, which would be a source of revenue for the association. A building of pleasing design and one to which every citizen could point with pride, and which would do honor to our city, would be very much more in line with the public sentiment, and to attract those who are in a position to help materially than the location talked of. If the association expects the people to take upon themselves to build an association home before the association members have done all they can, I fear for the association. It is for the association as a body and individually to show their interest in the project, then those outside of the association will feel much more in sympathy with the movement and will demonstrate it; in fact, "God helps those that help themselves."

For location it has been found in talking with some representative men in our city, that a building on a business street, North street, for instance, meets with favor. As for the association members, they will find that so far as they show by their efforts, their desire and need, they will have the support of the city almost to a unit.

A Car Drops Its Motor—Brakes Would Not Hold a Car on the Wickham Avenue Hill.

One of the green cars dropped its motor at the corner of Academy avenue and East Main street, last evening, and passengers were transferred around it for some little time, until the motor could be replaced.

One of the large double truck cars was put on in its place and, this morning, while coming down the Wickham avenue hill it became unmanageable. The brake failed to check the momentum of the car and the reverse lever was brought into use, but neither appliance was sufficient to stop the car and it went around the curve at terrific speed. The weight of the car, however, held it to the track, but it did not come to a standstill until the Wright lot was reached on North street.

HYMENEAL.

Townsend—Hinchman.

Dr. Charles Emerson Townsend, a rising young physician of Newburgh, and Miss Lena M. Hinchman, one of Middletown's best known and most deservedly popular young ladies, were married in St. Paul's Church, last evening, by Rev. Dr. Darwood, pastor of the church.

By common consent of all who were fortunate enough to be present the wedding is declared to be as pretty an affair of the kind as ever took place in Middletown. The arrangements were so well made and so carefully carried out that there was none of the crowding and confusion so often incident to church weddings. Admission was by card only. About 400 friends of the contracting parties witnessed the ceremony.

The church was beautifully decorated. Palms, ferns, draceæ and chrysanthemums were banked between the organ and the altar rail, and the altar rail and that about the organ were hidden beneath wreaths of ground pine.

Promptly at the appointed hour, 7:30 o'clock, the bridal party entered the church from the lecture room. First came the ushers, Messrs. Fred S. Rogers and T. E. Hayes, of this city; Mr. George M. Wells, of Port Jervis; and Dr. Henry H. Koles, of New York; then the little maid of honor, Miss Evaline A. Korn, niece of the bride, followed by the bridesmaids, Miss Eleanore B. Royce, of this city; Miss Flora Shimer, of Port Jervis; Miss Alice Fleeck, of Newark, O., and Miss Anna May Ball, of this city.

"With measured tread and slow" the party moved up the left aisle to the entrance doors, where the bride and the maid of honor, Miss Harriet Himes, of Troy, were in waiting. The bride, leaning on the arm of Mr. W. B. Royce and attended by her maids of honor, followed the ushers and bridesmaids down the right aisle and as they neared the altar, the ushers and bridesmaids separated, allowing the bride and her attendants to pass between them. At the altar the bride was joined by the bridegroom, who, attended by the best man, Mr. Lewis C. Senger, of Port Jervis, had entered from the lecture room.

In performing the ceremony Dr. Darwood used the most beautiful and impressive of the Methodist rituals. Mr. W. B. Royce gave the bride away.

The bride's dress was heavy ivory satin, with court train, with chiffon and pearl trimming. Her veil was fastened with her engagement ring. She wore no wreath, but sprays of lily of the valley were fastened in her hair.

The maid of honor, Miss Himes, wore white chrysanthemum crepe trimmed with shrimp pink satin ribbon. The little maid of honor, Eva Korn, was also dressed in white chrysanthemum crepe, made over white silk, trimmed with shrimp pink ribbon.

The bridesmaids' dresses were all of the same shade of shrimp pink. Those of Miss Fleek and Miss Shimer were of chrysanthemum crepe and those of Miss Royce and Miss Bull had waists of crepe and satin skirts.

After the services at the church a reception was held at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Evaline A. Hinchman, 37 South street, which was attended by about 125 relatives and friends of the bride and groom.

The house was beautifully and elaborately decorated with chrysanthemums and cosmos and with festoons of ground pine.

After the happy couple had received the congratulations of friends, refreshments were served by Day Brothers, of Newark, N. J., and shortly before 11 o'clock Dr. and Mrs. Townsend left amid a shower of rice and a blaze of red fire to take Erie train 3 for the west.

The bride's traveling costume was of brown cloth with velvet trimming. The hat was of the same color as the dress and was trimmed with blue, and corn flowers.

Dr. and Mrs. Townsend will visit Baltimore and Old Point Comfort, and expect to be absent until Nov. 1st, when they will begin housekeeping in a house on Liberty street, Newburgh, which Dr. Townsend has built and furnished for his bride.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents. Her mother's gift was a sealskin sack. The groom's gift was a beautiful Marquise ring,—an opal and diamonds. The bride's gift to the groom was a diamond scarf pin.

The bride gave to each of the bridesmaids and maids of honor a beautiful Duchesse lace handkerchief. The groom's gifts to the ushers and best man were pearl scarf pins.

It was noted as a fitting coincidence that in cutting the bride's cake, the piece containing the ring, which, as all know, is a sure sign that the lady receiving it will soon be married, fell to the lot of Miss Shimer, invitations for whose marriage to Mr. Geo. M. Wells, of Port Jervis, were issued yesterday.

Among those present from out of town were: Misses Edith and Alice Townsend, sisters of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Kelly, brother-in law and sister of the bride; Dr. Sherman and Mr. Charles Hinchman, all of New York; Miss Addie Bird and Miss Carrie Reeve, of Newark, N. J.; Miss Frost, of Poughkeepsie; Mrs. McCutcheon, of Tarrytown, and Mr. Samuel Farnum, of Paterson.

THE MATTEAWAN HOSPITAL.

Eighth Annual Meeting of State Hospital Trustees and Superintendents at the Asylum for the Criminal Insane—A Model Institution—Its Officers—Mrs. Halliday and Other Noted Prisoners

All the State Hospitals for the Insane, except the institution at Ogdensburgh, were represented, yesterday, in the eighth annual meeting of the Associated Hospital Managers and Medical Superintendents, at the Matteawan Asylum for Criminal Insane, at Matteawan. The institution at this place was unusually strong in its numerical representation, there being present six of its trustees, Messrs. Stivers, Decker, Devoe, Graham, Slote and Macardell and Medical Superintendent, Dr Talcott.

While it is to be said of these meetings that they are always productive of valuable results to hospital interests, this one was regarded by those present as of special moment in these directions, as it afforded them opportunity for a a thorough inspection of this model institution in which it was convened.

The Matteawan Asylum is distinctive from the other State hospitals as it is under the jurisdiction of the Department of State Prisons, of which Gen. Lathrop is head.

The buildings at Matteawan are of fine appearance and most admirably adapted to the purpose for which they are used. They were designed by State Architect Perry and erected under his supervision. They cost $900,000 and the wonder is that such results could be achieved by the expenditure of no greater sum. Connected with the institution is a farm of 249 acres. The site, a natural ampitheatre, is one of marvelous beauty.

DR. ALLISON AND ASSISTANTS.

The Asylum is under the charge of Dr. H. E. Allison, a man most admirably qualified by nature, education and long experience for such a difficult and responsible position. Mrs. Allison, a lady of unusual culture and refinement, but most modest and unassuming, is a helpmeet indeed to her husband in his work. The assistant physicians, Drs. Daley and Lamb, are well fitted for their positions and are earnest and devoted to their work.

A most interesting feature of yesterday's meeting was a paper on the Criminal Insane, which was read by Dr. Allison. It was a thoughtful and carefully prepared review of his work in behalf of the insane at Auburn and Matteawan.

The visitors were escorted through the buildings and saw much that was of interest. There are about 400 inmates, and there was scarcely a face that did not bear on it marks of vice and crime and it was plain to be seen that juries and judges had made no mistakes in isolating the inmates from society at large. The patients are allowed, as far as possible, the same privileges as patients in other State hospitals. The discipline, though strict, is kindly in its enforcement. One of the rules of the institution is that whenever the door of a ward is opened every inmate must take a seat.

MRS. HALLIDAY.

Mrs. Halliday was naturally an object of special interest to the representatives of the Middletown Hospital. When first seen she was munching an apple. She stopped eating when the visitors entered and covered the lower part of her face with a piece of cloth. She looks and acts much as she did in the court room at Monticello, during her trial. Her viciousness was shown by ugly kicks at a visitor who went near her. There can be no question of her insanity. She is in the main quiet and tractable and has made but little trouble. The ward of which she is an inmate is presided over by a woman of the most remarkable physique, a giant in size and a Sampson in strength, who could easily subdue Mrs. Halliddy, or any other of the prisoners if they should become unruly.

OTHER MURDERESSES.

Later the visitors entered the ward in which Mrs. Halliday is confined, while the inmates were at dinner. Mrs. Halliday stopped eating at once and covered her face. At the table with her was Mrs. Robinson, "the veiled murderess." She was sent to prison over forty years ago for the murder of her husband. For years she kept her face closely veiled and thus acquired the name, "the veiled murderess," which has made her one of the State's most noted prisoners. She has been an inmate of the criminal asylum for very many years. She no longer wears a veil. She is perhaps seventy years old, white-haired, and her face is gentle, placid, restful and almost beautiful. Across the table sat a strikingly beautiful woman, under a life sentence for the murder of her lover, whom she shot down in the streets of Brooklyn. By her side was a woman who had murdered her husband.

In the isolated building the star prisoner is young Perry, the desperate train robber, with a record of many other crimes. His face is a thoroughly bad one, that of a desperate, dangerous man, whose wild eyes tell plainly of the crazed brain behind them.

The only way to cure catarrh is to purify the blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood and tones up the whole system.

THE DEATH OF J. K. SCOFIELD

An Inquest Held—The Accident Due to the "Man's Own Carelessness."

An inquest in the case of James Kimber Scofield, of Johnson, who was killed at the East Main street crossing of the Erie, Tuesday, by train 38, was held at the Russell House, last evening.

The witnesses examined were Jonathan S. Foster, the engineer, and Daniel E. Mackerly, the fireman of train 38, both of whom reside in Port Jervis; Chas. H. Wilson, of this city, who witnessed the accident; Dr. Hulett, who was called to attend the man at the hospital, and Merritt C. Owen, who was talking with Scofield when he started to cross the track.

Mr. Foster testified that he did not see the man until he struck the side of the depot; that he was running slowly, probably not over fifteen miles an hour, as he was late and expected to meet train 21, there.

Mr. Mackerly, said he first saw Scofield when he was standing on the N. Y., S. & W. platform; that he started to run as if he wanted to catch the train, but that he halted between the two tracks and then started again when the engine was not over five feet away. He called to the man, but before he could be heard, the engine had struck him.

Mr. Wilson was standing at the depot; heard the train whistle for the crossing and saw Scofield run to the crossing, halt between the tracks and start again, when he was struck by the cylinder of the engine, thus corroborating the fireman's testimony.

Dr. Hulett's testimony was in reference to the man's injuries. He found him suffering from a compound comminuted fracture of the right arm, fractures of two-thirds of the ribs of the same side and contusions about the head and face on the left side. There were also symptoms of internal injuries and it was his opinion that death was caused by the latter.

Mr. Owens testified that he had been talking with Scofield half an hour before he started for the train and knew that he was under the influence of liquor. Did not see the accident.

The verdict of the jury was in accordance with the facts—that the deceased came to his death at the time and place mentioned as a result of his own carelessness.

RETURN OF PHŒNIX ENGINE CO.

Back from the Big Parade, Last Night—A Very Pleasant Trip.

Phœnix Engine Company returned via the O. and W. Night Line at 10:30 o'clock, last evening. The members left the train at the Main street depot and headed by the 24th Separate Company Band marched through East Main street, to North, to John and to the truck house, where the company was dismissed.

The boys all unite in saying that they had a splendid time, the only drawback to the whole affair being what was evidently an oversight on the part of the Newburgh firemen, or members of the Common Council of that city,—no carriages were provided for Phœnix's invited guests and ex-Mayor Bailey and Aldermen Luddington, Reed, Greene and Funnell marched with the boys nearly the whole length of the line of march.

As for yesterday's parade it was the greatest event of the kind in the history of the Hudson River cities. There were thirty companies in line and almost as many bands.

A VETERAN'S VERDICT.

The War is Over. A Well-known Soldier, Correspondent and Journalist Makes a Disclosure.

Indiana contributed her thousands of brave soldiers to the war, and no state bears a better record in that respect than it does. In literature it is rapidly acquiring an enviable place. In war and literature Solomon Yewell, well known as a writer as "Sol," has won an honorable position. During the late war he was a member of Co. M, 2d. N. Y. Cavalry and of the 13th Indiana Infantry Volunteers. Regarding an important circumstance he writes as follows:

"Several of us old veterans here are using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, Heart Cure and Nerve and Liver Pills, all of them giving splendid satisfaction. In fact, we have never used remedies that compare with them. Of the Pills we must say they are the best combination of the qualities required in a preparation of their nature we have ever known. We have none but words of praise for them. They are the outgrowth of a new principle in medicine, and tone up the system wonderfully. We say to all, try these remedies."—Solomon Yewell, Marion, Ind., Dec. 5, 1892

These remedies are sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles $5, express prepaid. They positively contain neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

MAXIMUS.

I hold him great who, for love's sake,
Can give, with generous, earnest will,
Yet he who takes for love's sweet sake
I think I hold more generous still.

I bow before the noble mind
That freely sees a wrong forgives,
Yet nobler is the one forgiven
Who bears that burden well and lives.

It may be hard to gain and still
To keep a lowly, steadfast heart,
Yet he who loses has to fill
A harder and a truer part.

Glorious it is to wear the crown
Of a deserved and pure success,
He who knows how to fail has won
A crown whose luster is not less.

Great may he be who can command
And rule with just and tender sway,
Yet is diviner wisdom taught
Better by him who can obey.

Blessed are they who die for God
And earn the martyr's crown of light,
Yet he who lives for God may be
A greater conqueror in his sight.

A NEGLECTED WONDER.

The Spanish Escurial a Marvelous Specimen of Ancient Architecture.

The Escurial, the palace of the Spanish king, an architectural marvel, formerly described as the "eighth wonder of the world," is now seldom spoken of, even by those who are ready to go wild over much less pretentious structures. The cornerstone of this "Spanish St. Peter's" was laid by Philip II in 1563, but it was 302 years (1865) before the monstrous building was pronounced finished. It was built by Philip in fulfillment of a vow to "erect the finest monastery in the world" should his forces be successful in their great battle with the French. That battle was fought at St. Quentin on Aug. 10, 1557, St. Lawrence day, and in order to honor that saint as well as to fulfill his vow the king had the foundation of his great memorial laid off in the shape of a gridiron, the implement of torture upon which the goodly Lawrence is reputed to have suffered martyrdom.

To those who have never visited the Escurial the size of the gigantic structure is beyond comprehension. It is 740 feet from north to south and 580½ feet from east to west, the square towers at each corner rising to a height of over 200 feet. Within this monstrous building is the king's palace, a cathedral, a monastery of 200 cells, two colleges, three chapter houses, three library buildings, five large halls, six dormitories, three hospitals and over 8,000 other rooms. In order to make St. Lawrence's gridiron complete, the building is built in quadrangular form, with 17 rows or ranges of monstrous stone structures crossing each other at right angles, these forming the gridiron's ribs, the handle being a wing 470 feet in length. The church, which is a part of this vast pile of masonry, is 364 feet long, 230 feet wide, with a dome 330 feet in height. It is estimated that the building cost $50,000,000.—St. Louis Republic.

Catching Shrimp In the South.

The Charleston gourmet is now joyously feasting daily on our own little dish, the shrimp. There is hardly a family in the city that does not have this dainty little crustacean served for breakfast in some shape or form. When the dark shades of night drop over the harbor, the hardy shrimp men man their little canoes, and with their cast nets neatly arranged and ready to be thrown they make for the long, dark shores of marsh where their prey makes its feeding grounds. They have to wait silently and patiently on the edges of the marsh until a certain time of the tide, when out come the shrimp in millions, and out fly the heavy nets, and the work commences.

The oarsmen pull or punt or paddle along the shore, and the man with the net keeps his eyes and ears open for the ripple and sound of the sportive shrimp. As the shrimp moves through the water he is a beautiful sight. The most beautiful colors shine from his long body, and his fan shaped tail stirs the phosphorescence and leaves behind him a subdued trail of fire.

When the usual quantity is caught and the turning of the tide takes the shrimp to other spots, the shrimpers pull for the wharves to sell their spoil. Long before daybreak the venders, men and women, are on hand with their trays to get their morning's supply for their numerous customers. The number of these venders can be safely put at 300.—Charleston News and Courier.

Addison's Characteristics.

Addison is the very embodiment of that delightful gift of humor on which we pride ourselves so much as a specially English quality. That in its way his style is the perfection of English style is less dear and delightful to us than that what it conveys is the perfection of feeling. His art is the antipodes of that satirical art which allows human excellence only to gird at it and insinuate motives which diminish or destroy. Addison, on the other hand, allows imperfections which his interpretation turns into something sweeter than virtue and throws a delightful gleam of love and laughter upon the eccentricities and characteristic follies of individual nature. That he sees everything is one of the conditions of his genial forgiveness of all that is not mean or base or cruel. With these he makes no terms.—Mrs. M. O. W. Oliphant in Century.

Paper Water Pipes.

The making of water pipes out of paper pulp is receiving much attention and is said to be successful, even in the crude manner in which all first attempts are undertaken. They are said to be as durable as iron, and the process of molding them is about the same in both cases.—Hardware.

"WHAT ARE WE HERE FOR?"

Web Flanagan's Own Story of How He Uttered the Famous Remark.

"Flanagan of Texas" is a name that always brings up a famous question, "What are we here for?" Whether in New York, Chicago or San Francisco, that name on the hotel register always brings a crowd of people to see the man who originated one of the most famous phrases in American politics. The sentence has gone into history and become a part of it. It was one of the memorable incidents of one of the most memorable conventions that ever assembled in America—the Chicago national Republican convention which defeated Grant and nominated Garfield. Ever since then somebody in every convention, large or small, has arisen to ask, "What are we here for?" Web Flanagan of Henderson, Rusk county, Tex., is the man who said it first of all. To a writer for the Galveston News Flanagan told the story of the phrase. This is the way he told it:

"It was in Chicago in 1880. I was a member from Texas in the national convention. When the committee on platform and resolutions reported, Barker of Massachusetts offered to insert a plank pledging the party to civil service reform. I arose in my place and said: 'Mr. President, Texas has had quite enough of civil service reform. Out of 1,300 offices in that state 1,000 of them are filled by Democrats. We believe that to the victors belong the spoils. Every proposition of this sort comes from states that are threatened with a Mugwump invasion. Sir, the boys in the trenches are demanding recognition. Party service entitles them to something at the party's hands. They need the offices, and, sir, what are we here for but for the offices?' Immediately the delegates and the galleries yelled. They shouted till they were hoarse, and it was several minutes before the chairman was finally able to restore order. The next day the incident was in all of the papers, and from then till now it has been traveling around the earth. I have seen it in foreign papers and have heard it time and again in national conventions since then. It was simply a forcible way I had of expressing myself. I never had the slightest idea that my chief claim to fame should be a chance expression in the confusion of a great national body."

EDWIN BOOTH'S UNHAPPINESS.

To His Daughter He Says He Was Never Really Happy.

A number of letters written by Edwin Booth to his daughter and intimate friends are published in The Century. The following one to his daughter gives an index to the melancholy that was so marked in his disposition:

NEW YORK, Jan. 5, 1888.

I have seen Rose several times and shall say goodby tomorrow. I do all I can for her, but nothing on earth can render her lonely life less weary, poor soul! As for God's reward for what I have done, I can hardly appreciate it. 'Tis more like punishment for misdeeds (of which I've done many) than grace for good ones (if I've done any). Homelessness is the actor's fate, physical incapacity to attain what is most required and desired by such a spirit as I am slave to. If there be rewards, I certainly am well paid, but hard schooling in life's thankless lessons has made me somewhat of a philosopher, and I've learned to take the buffets and rewards of fortune with equal thanks, and in suffering all to suffer—I won't say nothing, but comparatively little. Dick Stoddard wrote a poem called "The King's Bell," which fits my case exactly (you may have read it). He dedicated it to Lorimer Graham, who never knew an unhappy day in his brief life, instead of to me, who never knew a really happy one. You mustn't suppose from this that I'm ill in mind or body. On the contrary, I am well enough in both. Nor am I a pessimist. I merely wanted you to know that the sugar of my life is bitter sweet—perhaps not more so than every man's whose experience has been above and below the surface. Business has continued large and increased a little every night. The play will run two weeks longer. Sunday at 4 o'clock I start for Baltimore, arriving there at 10 o'clock.

Tomorrow a meeting of actors, managers and artists at breakfast to discuss and organize, if possible, a theatrical club like the Garrick of London.

Practical Chemistry.

Once, when lecturing to his class, a certain learned professor thus delivered himself:

"I would have you observe, gentlemen, that coal, when exposed to the action of the air, loses 10 per cent of its weight and heating properties. This arises through the influence of the alkaline constituents of the"—

"But, sir, how is it when a dog lies near the coals?" interrupted one of his hearers.

"Young gentleman, this is neither the time nor the place to crack these small jokes of yours," severely retorted the professor.

"I beg your pardon, sir, but that is exactly what my father thought and said when he found it necessary to leave the stock of coal for a few nights in the open air, and it was discovered that it had diminished to the alarming extent of over 70 per cent. He then consulted me, as a student of chemistry, as to what could be done to stay such loss, and I suggested that a savage dog should be procured and kept chained near the coals. He took my advice, and since then our coals have not lost so much as 2 per cent in an entire month."—London Tit-Bits.

Forest Air.

There is a general impression that the humidity of the air is greater in the woods than in the open fields. This is contradicted, however, by the result of observations recently made in Germany.

It was found there that the humidity, both relative and absolute, was slightly greater in the open than in the woods, and this was true equally in the morning and in the afternoon.

As to the temperature of the air among the trees, it was a trifle higher than in the open in the morning, and in a more marked degree in the afternoon.—Youth's Companion.

A Matter of Taste.

She—But how can you think I'm pretty when my nose turns up so?

He—Well, all I have to say is that it shows mighty poor taste in backing away from such a lovely mouth.—Standard.

All the Clothes,

all at once, makes too much of a wash, perhaps. Use Pearline, and it's easy to do a few at a time. Lots of women do this. They take the napkins, towels, handkerchiefs, hosiery, etc., each day as they are cast aside.

Soak them in Pearline and water; boil them a few minutes, rinse out—and there they are, perfectly clean.

No bother, no rubbing. When the regular wash-day comes, there isn't much left to do.

Why isn't this just as well as to keep everything and wash in one day? 418

E. E. CONKLING, AGENT

THE COLLEGE BRED SISTER.

She has just returned from college, where she studied such improvement which has been achieved in Latin and in scientific lore.

She has stowed her mind with knowledge vast enough to start a college, but she cannot carve a chicken without mussing up the floor.

She writes pamphlets and stories, and in thoughts [illegible] glories, and talks "universal suffrage" in a way that strikes one dumb.

With undisguised admiration at her learned inspiration, but she cannot darn her stockings without boring through her thumb.

She's a crank on household neatness and will frown with pouting sweetness should my shoes mud spots leave scatter on the polished hallway floor.

But she thinks not or demurring when her pet cat comes a-purring, and with arched back rubs the varnish off the panels of the door.

She will frown if I say "ain't he," and on grammar lecture to me until my poor head is swimming with the strict rules of syntax.

But she'll listen with great relish when her beau talks "baby English" and gets mad should I hint gently that his Ferris wheel is lax.

Oh, she is a pearl, a treasure, this sweet sir, with eyes of azure, and I'm sure she'll make a record as a happy mortal's wife,

But I warn the swain aspiring that she'll boss with sway untiring and will make him walk a chalked line for the balance of his life.

—New Orleans Picayune.

Only Traveled One Way.

"So this is the Grand Central depot, eh?" he said to the station official, gazing around admiringly.

"Yes, sir," answered the uniformed man.

"And the cars run out of here right along, I suppose?" he went on inquiringly.

"In and out," answered the official, with the air of a man who knew and was glad to impart the information. "This is a terminus."

"In and out. You don't tell me!"

"Certainly; they have to come in and go out." And he looked at the stranger with just a shade of pity in his eyes.

"Now, that's strange," said the inquiring foreigner. "We have a terminus where I live, too—a sort of a branch from the main line—but the cars there only run out."

"And not in?" put in the man in the office incredulously.

"And not in," positively answered the stranger. "You see, we build them."

And then he went over to the ticket agent to inquire if the Buffalo express stopped long enough at Albany to enable a man to get a drink, while the obliging official went into the baggage room and held a hard word argument with himself. —New York World.

Unnecessary Advice.

"Has that young George Holdington declared himself yet?" demanded Mrs. Pickering of her daughter.

"No-o, not exactly, mother, but"—

"Has he even asked you to marry him?"

"Not exactly, but I'm sure he's going to."

"H'm! Well, don't you let him know whether you think anything of him until he asks you in so many words to be his wife."

"Why not, mother?"

"It isn't best for a young girl to let a man know how much she cares for him until he commits himself."

"Why not, mother?"

"Never mind why not! You take my advice and keep George in the dark as much as possible."

"Oh, I do, mother!" cried Lena, brightening visibly. "We always turn out all the lights whenever he calls."—S. & G.'s Monthly.

LIFE WAS A BURDEN.

A Pain-racked Sufferer Tells How He Was Cured.

A. F. Chapman, 350 Washington street, Buffalo, N. Y., says: "For years I suffered excruciating rheumatic pain in my arms and shoulders. Munyon's Rheumatism Cure is guaranteed to cure rheumatism in any part of the body. Acute or muscular rheumatism cured in from one to five days. is injurious, but nothing gives strength, and tones up the stomach like a pure old port wine. "Royal Ruby Port," so called for its royal taste and ruby color, is on account of its purity, age and strength, particularly adapted for invalids, convalescents and the aged. Sold only in bottles (never in bulk) while cheap wine is sold by the gallon and gives a larger profit to the seller but less to the user. This wine is absolutely pure, and has the age without which no wine is fit to use. Be sure you get "Royal Ruby" quart bottles $1, pints 60 cts. Sold by

THE COMMON COUNCIL.

PROCEEDINGS OF LAST NIGHT'S REGULAR MEETING.

The Extension of Beacon Street—Mrs. Hasbrouck Makes a Concession Kansas City Wants Some of Our Money—A Bed for the Poor at Thrall Hospital—Bills Audited and Other Business Transacted.

A regular session of the Common Council was held last evening, all the members being present except Messrs. Bowler and Mance.

Mr. R. M. Rorty was the first person to claim the privilege of addressing the Council. His subject was the matter of the extension of Beacon street. He said the objections raised were futile and illegal and all that was required was action by the Council. The commission appointed by the Court had done its work and the Council should do its part. Mr. Rorty said he was probably regarded by the Council as was a friend of his in Paterson, a Lancashire man who, when asked to explain how he accomplished his object with the Common Council, said:

"I just kep' at 'em and at 'em and at last they put it through just to get rid of I."

He hoped they would take action in this matter "to get rid of I."

A complaint from residents of Hanford street that a resident who owns a large property had not complied with an order to flag, was referred to the street committee with power to act.

A communication from Mrs. Hasbrouck in reference to the opening of Beacon street, of which the following is the substance, was read and referred to the city attorney:

"Taking everything into consideration, I have concluded to give an option for the extension of Beacon street. You will agree that under the present aspect of affairs, the expenses of opening the street will become a general tax. I am neither morally, financially or legally committed to any one and receive no financial benefit. I have, unaided, opened up and graded most of the street. But as it will be a public benefit, Mr. Hasbrouck and myself have concluded if other parties will pay their assessments, to contribute enough to complete the payment to Ira L. Case. Also will give the city right of way through our lands; at the same time the bungling work of the Commission is to be ignored."

Mrs. Hasbrouck claims by this offer to give $1,000 in cash and nearly half the land needed.

A communication from the Mayor of Kansas City asking for $15, as Middletown's share of a fund being raised among the cities of the United States to defend an action for infringement of a patent in using the swinging hatness on Eagles' patrol horses was read but no action was taken.

A communication from D. Finn asked that a balance due L. F. Olney for laying out Thrall Park be paid at once, and gave notice that if is not paid suit will be brought. It was found that Mr. Olney had been paid $100, and the balance asked for brings the amount up to $287.

A communication from Mrs. Van Duzer, secretary of the Board of Managers of Thrall Hospital, notified Council that a city bed for the poor had been established at the hospital and of the appointment of Superintendent of the Poor, W. H. Wood, as the city's representative in charge of the bed. It was also stated that no patients suffering from contagious diseases would be received.

Correspondence between the City Clerk and the managers of the Naphtha Company in reference to deductions for lights not burning at night, was read and discussed.

A petition for an arc light at the corner of Fulton and Canal streets, was presented by O. G. O'Neill.

The annual report of the Water Commissioners was filed with the Clerk and was referred to the Law Committee.

A bond of Orr Bros., endorsed by the Mack Manufacturing Company and others, guaranteeing to keep the North street brick pavement in repair for five years, was read and accepted by vote of Council.

On motion of Mr. Baldwin the Mayor was authorized to transfer lot 27 belonging to the city to Mrs. Williamson in exchange for her lot for street purposes.

On motion of Mr. Greene the City Attorney was directed to proceed to collect the assessments in the matter of the Beacon street extension.

The city engineer was directed to number the houses on Albert street.

Crosswalks were ordered on Lake avenue, between Wickham and Wallkill avenues, and on Beattie avenue, between Railroad avenue and Prince street.

A naphtha lamp was ordered at the corner of Albert street and Beattie avenue.

On motion of Mr. Reed a draft for $17,500 was ordered in favor of the First National Bank to take up two notes and interest of $8,019 60 to take up note for brick paving on North street.

Mr. Richard Decker Badly Hurt in a Road Accident Near Goshen.

Mr. Richard Decker, of Roberts street, this city, met with painful and probably serious injuries, by falling from a wagon near the creamery of the Orange County Milk Association, near Goshen, yesterday afternoon. As is well known, Mr. Decker, who is in his eighty fifth year, attends to his duties at the creamery, at Goshen, every day, leaving this city on the Orange County Express and returning on the Mountain Express in the evening.

Yesterday afternoon, his granddaughter, Mrs. VanSteenburgh, accompanied by her daughter, Daisy, and Mrs. A. L. Decker and her son, Dick, of this city, drove out to the creamery to meet Mr. Decker. They met him on the way and he sent his man back and got into the wagon with his grandchildren. In turning the vehicle around in a narrow place in the road the horse gave a sudden plunge and Mr. Decker, who was sitting in the back seat, which was not properly fastened, was thrown out backwards. He struck upon his head and side.

He complained of great pain and would not allow the ladies to touch him. A wagon, with two men, soon drove along and they lifted Mr. Decker into his vehicle and the party drove slowly to Goshen, where Dr. Seward was summoned.

Mr. Decker was brought to his home in this city on the Mountain Express, accompanied by Dr. Seward.

He is resting somewhat easier, this morning, but is suffering from the shock and concussion of the fall.

"EIGHT BELLS"

A Large Audience and a Good Performance—The Orchestra Out of Town.

The Casino was literally packed, last evening, the reputation which the Brothers Byrne made here last season having been remembered and heralded by all who then saw them. The performance of "Eight Bells" is lively and funny from start to finish, and the acrobatic feats and tricks of the brothers tend to keep the audience in a continuous roar of laughter. The orchestra "was out of town," and one of the members of the company apologized to the audience and scored the management for the oversight. Most of the members of the orchestra belong to the 24th Separate Company Band and were at Newburgh with Phœnix Engine Company. Mr. Stevens was engaged at the Hinchman-Townsend wedding. The company fortunately had its own orchestra leader and he managed to keep the music going on his violin.

The boat is twenty-one feet long, five and one half feet beam and draws twenty one inches of water.

—Register to morrow. Last chance.

Elder Jenkins's Donation

The annual donation to Elder Benton Jenkins, pastor of the Old School Baptist Church, took place last evening. Over 100 of the parishioners were present and all passed a pleasant evening.

The donations were very liberal.

TO HELP WOMEN.

That Is Why This Woman Writes.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS]

Few people have any idea of the suffering that oppresses some women

Pain runs rampant through their entire bodies. They suffer secretly as long as they can, and then go all to pieces and don't care what happens.

Yet this misery is easily relieved, thousands of American women proclaim the fact.

The portrait presented here is that of Mrs. J. M. Bender, who lives on the old York Road at Norristown, Pa. She has been for many years in very poor health.

She had falling of the womb and other forms of female weakness with headache, severe backache, pains all over her body, and serious kidney trouble.

Her blood was in such a bad state that physicians said she had dropsy. Nearly discouraged she tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to her great surprise found herself a well woman.

She now wishes to tell women all over the world to take the Vegetable Compound and be well. Any druggist has it.

Nothing in all the world has cured so many cases of female weaknesses as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Why don't it cure you?

ECONOMY TALK.

Sail Extraordinary

Commencing to-day, Oct. 8 and every day this week, there will "sail" out of our store a large lot of Remnants of Dress Goods and Cloths — Velvet, velveteen trimming, silk, also millinery trimmings and cloaks. The prices at which they are marked will not require much "wind" to set them "a sail." This will be a more attractive sale than regular remnant sale, as you can get quantities of some goods at about remnant prices. It is hardly necessary to say the most desirable pieces will go first.
